International Youth Exchange Project

Aim of the Project:

Aim of the Youth Exchange, is to equip young individuals with the knowledge and skills needed to cultivate a positive outlook on themselves and their surroundings, ultimately contributing to a fairer and more environmentally responsible society. At every stage, the project will be deeply embedded with a commitment to nature and environmental responsibility, driven by our profound care for our planet. We will explore and share various approaches to sustainable living while critically reflecting on environmental awareness and the conservation of natural resources - such as water, soil, sun, and energy from the sun, additionally, we will address pressing global environmental challenges, broadening our understanding of sustainability on a larger scale, topics such as re-use, re-cycle, and re-furbish, driven by our profound care for our planet.

Objectives for participants:

- increase key competencies,
- get to know new cultures and learn more about them (customs, traditions, ways of thinking);
- learn and develop new methods of education and their application in their organizations,
- acquire or improve personal and social skills and learn to work in a team, regardless of the origin of the partners;
- increase the sense of tolerance, flexibility, responsibility, awareness of other cultures and practices;
- improve and develop new networking skills,
- learn to present your own opinions and attitudes;
- develop self-knowledge and self-confidence

Town Košice

the metropolis of the east is the second largest city in Slovakia. The city is situated in the foothills of the Slovak Ore Mountains in the broader valley of the River Hornád, not far from the border with Hungary. A unique Central European metropolis, a European Capital of Culture 2013 and European Capital of Sports 2016. The unique atmosphere of the city is a mix of culture, lifestyle, history and industry. Košice is home to the oldest marathon in Europe, the place with the largest monument reservation in Slovakia, with the largest and most significant golden treasure in Europe, but primarily a place where life can be experienced and enjoyed.
